BISHOP LAMBUTH BEGINS HIS LONG AND PERILOUS JOURNEY

Letter Tells of Interesting Preparations for Trip Into Heart of Dark Continent—Much Financial Encouragement—2,000 Brazilian Converts Pray Daily for Success of Mission—Messengers Sent with Presents to Great African Chief Wembo Nima.—“In Eighteen Months I Shall Return.” Promised.

Bishop Lambuth—By Jan. 15th the Chief Will Have Cut Eighteen Notches in His Stick and the Promise Will be Kept

—By SOUTHERN MISSIONARY NEWS BUREAU—Ida Clyde Clarke, Editor

American friends and co-workers with Bishop Walter R. Lambuth, who is just now starting on his long perilous journey into the heart of Africa to establish there a mission of his church, have received very interesting letters from him.

One letter written from London, gives an interesting account of preparations for the journey. Bishop Lambuth says:

“Our purchases consisted of tents, coats, bedding, camp chairs, dishes of enameled ware, aluminum water bottles, folding bathtubs, a well-filled medicine chest, one hundred machetes for cutting high grass, axes for trees, and an ample supply of provisions to cover fifty days' march. We also added five tons of salt, in 200 sacks, sixty bales of white and blue cloth, together with trinkets and presents to be used in buying food, paying our carriers and in making gifts to the chiefs of the villages through which we might pass.

“Nor did I neglect to provide safety-pins, needles and thread with which to please the feminine eye, always on the lookout for something practical as well as novel. It is difficult for anyone who has not gone through the process to realize how much time and pains must be given to such preparations. The failure to adequately provide food, medicine and other necessities, might cost a life, or even many lives.

“There has been much to encourage me in the initial stage of this enterprise. Many personal letters have been received from friends in the United States, who have pledged their daily prayers in our behalf. Added to these is the fervent intercession which is constantly being made by fully 2,000 of our Brazilian converts. These have given a substantial guarantee of their interest by contributing $1,000 for the support of a missionary, and a surplus of $300 to be added to the fund for the second year. This is remarkable and full of inspiration when we remember that the first arrival conference was organized in Brazil twenty-five years ago, at which time there was not one single Brazilian preacher who was eligible for membership.

“Upon reaching England, I found a letter from Dr. W. F. Murry, secretary of the church extension board saying that he had $1,440 in hand towards the building of three houses for the three missionary families and would guarantee $1,500 more. In addition to this a brother in the state of Arkansas had sent him $1,000 for the building of a church.

“Three days later a cablegram reached me from Rev. T. L. Rippey, a friend deeply interested in the mission, promising to send $1,500 as a Christmas present for the building of a hospital. This, with the gift already made by Dr. J. W. Long, of Greensboro, N. C., for the establishment of the Mary-Long hospital, in memory of his daughter, will enable Dr. Mumpower to begin the treatment of African fevers, sleeping sickness and other diseases, with an equipment which should yield satisfactory results.

“Last night a letter reached me from Luebo, Africa, written by Mr. Gilbert of Lushamo, one of the Presbyterian missionaries. He wrote that, in accordance with my request, messengers had been sent to the great chief, Wembo Nima, with presents. They went on the run many days' journey and reached him before he cut the eighteenth notch in his stick.

“Of Gilbert and I had promised to return by the eighth full moon from the time we left. I sent a messenger. The messenger was glad to hear from us, and the presents had sent back word to me that he anxiously awaited my coming. This lifts a great burden of anxiety from my heart, for I did not know what might have occurred during the long interval of absence since we left his village eighteen months ago. We hope to reach Wembo Nima by January 16, at which time I shall deliver in person the message from various friends and from the two Brazilian annual conferences.

“I deeply regret, and so does Prof. Gilbert, the fact that he cannot go out with me this year. His church is not sufficiently organized to maintain him and it seems necessary, in order to thoroughly enlist the sympathy and co-operation of his constituency, that he should remain in the United States until after the general conference of 1914. He has written me that his heart is in Africa and he would be by my side were the way open.

“Tonight, Brother Mangum and I leave London for Antwerp, preparatory to sailing with our entire party on Saturday, next, November 8. We are much favored in having the company of Dr. M. M. Morrison of Luebo, who is returning to the Southern Presbyterian mission station at that point. We go in the strength of the Lord and with implicit faith that Jesus is with us in accordance with his promise. He alone is able to save Africa.

“I need hardly make the request of you that you pray for us by name, day by day, as we advance upon our perilous but glorious mission. It is a high privilege to pioneer such work on virgin soil. We go where no missionary's foot has ever trod, as far as we know.

“God be with you till we meet again.

Sincerely your friend and brother, (signed) W. R. LAMBUTH.”

NO CLEW FOUND

To Identity of Parties Who Buried the Nine Months Old Child Near Cy Carlisle's

Nothing has developed that would throw any light on the mystery of the buried child found near the home of Cy Carlisle in Madisonville a few days since. The body was found by Mr. Carlisle and was neatly dressed. It had been placed in a small wooden box and buried about two feet deep. Mr. Carlisle claimed that only a few days before the discovery he had seen a closed carriage pass his home just before daylight going in the direction where the body was found and that it returned in a short time. The liverymen of Madisonville say they had no closed carriage out on the day mentioned. The matter is now in the hands of the city and county officers and something may soon develop that will clear up the mystery.

Problems Encountered in Mining Coal in The Coalfields of Western Kentucky

By Newell, G. Alford, Assistant Engineer, St. Bernard Mining Co., Earlinton, Kentucky.
Presented Before The Kentucky Mining Institute, Lexington, Ky., Dec. 8th, 1913.

The average man practices will admit that, even at its best, mining coal demands a high grade of ingenuity on the part of managers and engineers. Managers and engineers can readily recall the instances when they thought they saw their string's end as to the solution of certain coal mining problems. But just as the darkest hour of night precedes the dawn of day, so are these moments of unexpressed anxiety transformed into those of relief. It only requires a given length of time including a given number of "problems" until the manager or engineer becomes imbued with a profound faith in the old belief that "everything comes out all right."

Even at the muleless, trackless, motorless mines of Kanawha, where the coal is stripped with a dinker engine and a derrick problem exist. So taking all in all, the western coalfields of Kentucky lose nothing through its need for solutions to the problems of content which surround it.

Before entering a discussion of the problems, it is best to scan the latest available report of the Kentucky mine inspector and the government Geological Survey's "Production of Coal in 1912."

In these reports it is estimated that the total acreage of the state underlain by available coal measures, is approximately 16,670 square miles, of which the Western Kentucky coalfield embraces 38.3 per cent. We also find that Kentucky's coal production in 1912 was, in round numbers, 16,491,000 tons—47.7 per cent of which was produced in the western field.

In connection with this 47.7 per cent, which amounts to slightly less than 8,000,000 tons, it is interesting to note that this tonnage was produced by 120 mines, operated by 49 companies. A detailed classification of the just mentioned mines and their outputs has been arranged by the writer.

Of the 120 mines:

- 21 per cent produced less than 10,000 tons.
 - 51 per cent produced less than 60,000 tons.
 - 23 per cent produced more than 100,000 tons.
 - 2 companies operating 18 mines produced 2,750,000 tons.
- The most important problems in the Western Kentucky field, discussed in this paper, are dealt with in the following order:
1. Robbing Pillars.
 2. Air passing through old workings.
 3. Ignition of No. 11 coal in old workings.
 4. Prevention of oxidation.
 5. Coal Dust.
 6. Shooting off the solid.
 7. Fatalities.
 8. Roof.
 9. Wastes.
 10. Pond Sites.
 11. Competition.

The workable measures in the western Kentucky field, under the present development, are with but few exceptions No. 9 and No. 11 as identified by the Kentucky State Geological Survey. Being more consistent in occurrence, No. 9 supplies about three-fourths of the total output of the field. This seam which is present in eight counties, according to investigations to date, averages 5 feet in thickness. While this bed is most generally approached by shafts 300 feet or less in depth, there are depressions in some localities which make entrance possible by slope or shaft.

Seam No 11, which lies from 40 to 100 feet above No. 9, is the bed next in importance in this field. It averages 6 feet in thickness.

Scheme of Working

Without a single exception the mines of Western Kentucky are developed by the room and pillar method, with double or triple entries. The triple entry system is used only in the larger mines where the motor partings are projected in the central entry; the side entries are used for haulage and ventilation respectively. This not only facilitates

"Worth More Than it Costs"

Lots of farmers declare their telephone service is worth more than it costs. J. W. Harris, a well-known farmer living near Choccolocco, Ala., writes:

"I had occasion to call our doctor not two hours after my telephone was connected with your exchange. My mother, who is very old, fell down the door steps and broke her arm, and I called the doctor. He was at my house before I could have gone to his residence, as he has an automobile."

"We would not be without our telephone for more than it costs and appreciate the assistance you rendered us."

Our free booklet tells how you may have telephone service on your farm at small cost. Write for it today. A postal will do.

WEAK KIDNEYS OFTEN THE RESULT OF OVERWORK

On several occasions I have been unable to work and suffered severe pains in the back, due to my kidneys. I called on a doctor of Ripon, Wis., but received no relief.

I tried Dr. Kimer's Swamp Root which gave me instant relief. I was then able to resume work. Swamp Root is the only relief I can get from kidney diseases which I am subject to in the spring of the year. I am writing this testimonial through my own free will that sufferers of kidney and bladder diseases will know of the wonderful merits of Swamp Root. I recommend Dr. Kimer's Swamp Root whenever I can and always have a bottle of Swamp Root in my home.

I purchased Swamp Root of Mr. C. J. Burnside, druggist, of 202 Main Street, Ripon, Wis.

Very truly yours,
THOS. J. LYNCH.

I have read the above statement that Thos. J. Lynch bought Dr. Kimer's Swamp Root at my store and made out the above statement is true in substance and fact.

Stevenson's Criticism.

Robert Louis Stevenson once went to hear Charles Halle play the piano at the Queen's hall. After the performance Stevenson, in his black shirt, walked in silence out Regent street to Oxford circus. He stopped at Oxford circus and, in a slow meditative voice, pronounced this excellent criticism on the English musician he had heard: "The manner of the elderly statesman at the piano was somewhat austere and chilling."

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Baker, of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by ALL DEALERS.

Title of Pope.

It is uncertain when the title pope was first used. The earliest instance we can cite, is that of Heraclius, Patriarch of Alexandria, in 222. It is still the ordinary title of parish priests in the eastern Greek church in the west, it continued for several centuries to be applied to bishops generally, but it was restricted to the Roman pontiff by Gregory VII. in a synod, held at Rome in 1073.

I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of 'croup.' Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to your children. For Sale by ALL DEALERS.

Birds Voracious Feeders.

As instances of the amount of food some birds consume, the Rev. C. T. Phillips, vicar of Irevigill, a well-known Cumberland naturalist, the other day found in the crop of a wood-pigeon he shot 140 beech nuts, whilst another wood-pigeon had devoured more finely-chopped trout leaves than he could hold in the palm of his hand.

The Liver loses its activity at times and needs help. HERBINE is an effective liver stimulant.

It also purifies the bowels, strengthens digestion and restores strength, vigor and cheerful spirits. Price 50c. Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, Drug Department.

Beans on a Stick.

Little Ethel was only four years old, and her mother was spending the day with a friend who had corn boiled on the cob on the table when dinner was served. Little Ethel had never eaten corn cooked this way before, but was very fond of it, and when she had carefully eaten every grain of corn from the cob, she passed the cob to the waiter and said, "Please mamma put some more on a stick."

Heartburn, indigestion or distress of the stomach is instantly relieved by HERBINE. It forces the badly digested food out of the body and restores tone in the stomach and bowels. Price 50c. Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, Drug Department.

FEEDING THE DAIRY COWS

Returns From Good Feeding Are Prompt and Sure

DRAW YOUR PAY AT ONCE

Does Not Pay to Run a Cow on Half Capacity—Big Amount of Milk Yields Are Secured Only When the Cow Eats a Large Amount of Feed.

It pays to feed good dairy cows. The returns are prompt and sure. You feed the cow, take your bucket and go right around and draw your pay at once.

The first essential in feeding is that an ample quantity of feed be supplied. It does not pay to run an engine upon half capacity. Neither does it pay to run a cow on half capacity. Big milk yields are secured only when the cow eats a large amount of feed.

It is also important that the feed shall be correctly balanced, and shall furnish the elements necessary to maintain the cow and to furnish the material which go to make up milk.

Next, the ration should be palatable, that is of such a nature that the cow will relish it. Pasture grass and silage are splendid examples of palatable feeds, as are also such feeds as wheat bran, oil meal and cotton seed meal, fresh and not musty, and bright, sweet, well-cured hay.

Next the feed shall be economical or cheap. Some feeds are palatable and well balanced, but are entirely too expensive for cow feed. At times wheat bran, oats and oil meal must be placed in the class of feeds which are too expensive for profitable use for feeding in large quantities. Home grown feeds are usually the most economical, as feeds grown on the farm do not have the producers' profit placed upon them. Corn and the legume hays, such as clover, alfalfa and cow peas form a perfectly balanced, home grown ration. These dairymen, as a rule, secure the greatest profits who grow large amounts of feed on the farm.

Another important matter in successful cow feeding is that the cow be given a sufficient variety. A cow tires if forced to eat a single feed for a long period without change. A mixture of several different feeds serves to whet the cow's appetite.

An ample quantity of good, clean roughage is exceedingly important. This is best furnished by clover, cow-pea or alfalfa, hay, corn stover or silage. Best results are obtained when roughage constitutes about two-thirds of the cow's ration by weight. The following grain mixtures give splendid results when fed to milk cows:

- (a) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 100 pounds cotton seed meal.
- (b) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 150 pounds dried distiller's grains, 100 pounds cotton seed meal.
- (c) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 200 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds cotton seed meal.
- (d) 400 pounds corn and cob meal, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds cotton seed meal.

In connection with good legume hay and silage the cow should be given one pound of the mixture for each three to three and one-half pounds of milk given, when the roughage is not a legume, a pound grain mixture to 2 1/2 to 3 pounds of milk.

A cow of ordinary size will consume thirty pounds of silage per day to advantage, and when silage is fed the amount of hay required is reduced one-half.

Two good home grown rations are as follows:

- (e) 10 pounds crushed corn and all the alfalfa, cow-pea and clover hay the cows will clean up.
- (f) 10 pounds crushed corn, corn stover at liberty, alfalfa, cow-pea or clover hay.

The most important constituent of a dairy feed is protein. Cotton seed meal, oil meal, wheat bran, dried distiller's grains, alfalfa, cow-pea and clover hay are examples of feeds rich in protein. The protein is used principally in the production of the casein or curd of milk, and a large quantity is required for this purpose. The value of a feed is largely determined by the quantity of digestible protein which it contains.

Good results have been secured when the ration consisted of corn silage, cotton seed meal and cow-pea or clover hay and corn stover. With silage, cow-pea or clover hay, feed one pound of one of the above grain mixtures to three and one-half to four pounds of milk given by the cow. It is safe to feed the cow about all the silage she will clean up. The same is true of hay.

The wise dairyman will grow silage and corn and protein-rich hay and will buy protein only to a limited extent, and then in the form of such feeds as cotton seed meal, dried distiller's grains, etc. A small amount of wheat bran or oil meal may be occasionally added for the sake of palatability and variety.

The mixtures mentioned above are only a few of the possible mixtures which may be used with good results. More complete information on the subject of profitable feeding and handling of dairy cows may be obtained by communicating with the dairy department of the State University Experiment Station.

WOMAN SICK FOURTEEN YEARS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me."

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Practical Ventilating Hint.

The house should be ventilated in winter as well as in summer if the family is to be kept in good health. Bedrooms, especially, should be provided with a free circulation of fresh air. One way to get fresh air in a bedroom without having a draft is to tack strips of cheesecloth across the top and the bottom of the window so that when it is opened in both places the fresh air will enter the room and yet, should there be a strong wind, its force will be broken by the cloth.

Problem Encountered in Mining Coal

By Newell G. Alford.

ventilation, but permits of the motor partings being located nearer the working rooms, thus reducing the mule haulage. On the other hand, this efficiency is accompanied by the additional cost of driving an extra entry.

Robbing Pillars

Robbing pillars in working No. 11 coal is particularly hazardous and impractical because of the heavy, solid character of the limestone overlying it. In the first place, No. 11 coal is the most friable of western Kentucky coals and crushing crushing results where insufficient pillars have been left. Another result obtaining from insufficient pillars is the settling of the pillars under pressure with the consequent heaving of the soft fire clay bottom.

Air Through Old Works

In some of the mines in this field, old works are used as air courses.
Gases generated by gob and shale piles, are absorbed and carried along by the air current.

The difficulties arising from this practice indicate that it should be avoided in all cases. The numerous wooden brattices to be maintained make it impossible to prevent large leakages in the current. In addition to this, tremendous friction resulting from the enormous rubbing surface encountered necessitates an unnecessary increase in the horse power of the ventilating equipment.

An instance is referred to, in the territory under discussion, where within the last few years an old mine was abandoned. The intake air was delivered by way of a long circuitous route through old works to the working faces. Owing to the long distance which the air had to travel, it finally reached the faces so permeated with impurities as to render the condition serious. This condition was one of the contributing factors which resulted in the closing of the mine.

Ignition of No. 11 Coal in Old Workings

Seams No. 9 and No. 11 with their accompanying shales and gob, are highly charged with iron pyrites.
That iron pyrites is subject to oxidation is an established fact. The atmospheric oxidation of the iron pyrites in the pillars of the old works accounts for the generation of considerable heat, slow as the process may be.

It is also believed that the energy expended in crushing pillars of insufficient cubic content, by the overlying strata is transformed into heat which promotes a rise in temperature.

The consequent expanding of the coal produces cleavages which, in turn augment further oxidation.
Gradually the condition develops.
Smoke is followed by a smoldering fire, the gob ignites and falls. This is followed by the ignition of No. 12 coal, where the intermediate strata of limestone is absent. This last development obtains in such cases where the fire has gained sufficient headway.

Prevention of Oxidation

The prevention of such fires as just described presents an interesting problem, which is solved by Western Kentucky operators in one or both of the following ways.

First: By sealing of the works liable to such action.

Second: By increasing the quantity of circulating air.

The persistence of the first method is a popular one because it not only prevents spontaneous ignition, but avoids the impregnation of the circulating air with the gob or shale gases. Since this method can best be worked out by sealing up an en-

Claude Morton UNDER TAKER tire block of old workings after their abandonment, it has created a tendency on the part of the largest operator in the field to adopt the panel system in working No. 11 coal.

To brattice off the old works largely excludes the oxygen necessary to the oxidation of the iron pyrites.
The second scheme is important because conditions arise where it is impossible to follow the sealing method. Here the end is accomplished through reducing the temperature of the air in contact with the pillars, by increasing the quantity of the circulation and thus preventing the development of heat.

Coal Dust

In the workings where there is a scarcity of mine water, the accumulation of coal dust is, in most cases, given strict attention by various managements. In keeping with the usual practice, coal dust is cleaned up at intervals and hauled from the mines. Sprinkling is also in prevalent use in this connection. Humidification of the intake air in the winter months has been universally adopted by the larger operators.

Shooting off The Solid

Because of the dangers attending the solid shooting of coal, Chief Inspector Norwood, has repeatedly discouraged this practice. Twenty two years ago, or to be more exact, in his report of 1891, he comments in part, as follows:

"Shooting off the solid is less common now than was the case a few years ago, when the prevalence of this performance invited warning against it from this office. Coal dust is now (speaking of 1891) generally admitted, by those who have studied the question, to be almost as dangerous as fire damp. An explosion may occur in any dusty mine and the probability of one exists where shooting off the solid is practiced."

This bit of past history is given by way of indicating the commendable manner in which Kentucky's mine inspection department has espoused the adoption of safe and sound mining methods, thus occupying a conspicuous place among the highly efficient inspection departments of the leading coal producing states.

Thus almost two decades prior to the scientific investigation and experiment conducted to prove that coal dust was an explosive agent, the Chief Inspector of Kentucky together with other advanced thinkers, promulgated the dangers attendant upon the presence of coal dust in our mines.

In connection with the solid shooting of coal, it is worthy of note that the machine mined coal in Western Kentucky was 26 per cent of the field's output in 1895. In 1911 the coal mined by machines was 79 per cent of the field's output—an increase in 16 years of 53 per cent. Hopkins County, the largest producing county of the state, produced 2550 000 tons in 1912 99 per cent of which was undercut by mining machines.

Fatalities

It is to the credit of the mine inspector and the various mine managers alike, that the last available inspector's report shows an unprecedented increase in the amount of coal mined per fatal accident. In 1910 there were 159 033 tons of coal won from the various seams for each life lost. In 1911, the production per fatality was 790 223 tons.

Roof

When unsupported, the roof of the working places in the No. 9 seam presents a great hazard to the life of workman. Only by careful inspection and thorough propping can accident be avoided. As the workings approach the crop lines the liability of accident becomes even greater, the black slate cover here shows marked tendencies toward disintegration.

CANSLER & MALONEY

In No. 11 seams, the gob roof between the coal and the limestone, is even more hazardous than the slate roof of No. 9. After the coal has been shot down, the gob will overhang the working places in thicknesses varying from 4 to 30 inches. Being exceedingly treacherous, it will work downward from the limestone cover without warning and fall with a thunderous crash on whatever happens to be below.

It is customary with one of the largest operators to work pick miners in entries where the character of the roof is such as to necessitate propping, too close for the operation of coal cutting machines.

Several companies operating in other seams have still more difficult roof conditions to contend with.
The strata overlying these coals consists of from ten to fifteen feet of light gray shale, which is in advanced stages of disintegration.

On removing all the coal in these mines, the shale will fall to heights of six to eight feet.

Twelve to eighteen inches of coal is therefore left overhead as a roof, of which 60 per cent is reclaimed in rooms after they have been exhausted. When the coal is mined to its full thickness the rotten overlying shale requires timber sets, thoroughly and solidly lagged, to hold it. In whatever entries are driven, no attempt is made to reclaim this top coal.

The degree of caution exercised within the mines of this field by superintendent and foreman is reflected by the following accident list.

During the year 1911, in the entire Western Kentucky field there were only three fatal accidents from falls of roof, and 19 miners or non-fatal accidents from the same cause.

Wastes

A fair estimate fixes about two-thirds as the net portion of the available coal measures which is won from the mines. Superlative competition in this field leaves so small a differential between costs of production and the sales prices that crop coal and coal of more expensive excavation must be left untouched and forever lost.

With a decrease in the market price, the consumer becomes more exact and much coal is wasted at the tipsies in cleaning the product to make the grades saleable at even a small figure. Good coal clinging to lumps of sulphur is often discarded on the waste piles in quantities which more than justify the lamentations of those sincerely interested in the conservation of our coal measures.

An instance of this. A large operator in this field discovered that in satisfying the exacting demands of his customers he was throwing away, on the refuse pile at a single mine, coal which if properly cleaned would have yielded him in the neighborhood of $1,000 per month.
This shows that if there had been some means of preparing the waste coal for use, provided that the mine was operating on a very narrow margin of profit, the net value would have done much toward helping the balance of the credit side of the ledger.

Another source of waste in this district is the indifference with which some of our operators plan the future development of their property. On good authority, it is claimed that 50 per cent of the operators have no idea as to the amount of their original holdings which they have exhausted.

Coincident with this is the general scarcity of technically trained engineers.

Inadequate pillars also contribute to the general waste. Frequently the smallness of pillars results in a request which necessitates the abandonment of the working places.
These rooms must then be recovered by driving "cut-offs" accompanied by additional expense and the loss of the coal which is left unmined.

It is taken for granted by most western Kentucky operators that squeezing goes hand in hand with the mining of coal. It is looked upon as one of the penalties of mining.

We have no definite data on the size of pillars that are required by a given vertical thickness of cover of a given character. Chief Inspector Norwood is at the present time endeavoring to secure government cooperation for the determination of these unknown quantities.

Operators working seams other than No. 9 or No. 11, in several instances, find it wholly impossible to recover more than 44 per cent of their available coal and are required by their conditions to leave more than half of their coal unmined.

Cost Keeping

Another question needing attention in this field is that of cost keeping. It is perfectly safe to say that 75 per cent of the operators do not know what it costs them to mine a ton of coal. They get extensions on bills and buy equipment on the installment plan, which is altogether within the limits of good management. But in many cases these items are not charged off in keeping with an accurate accounting system. At the end of a given period they find their balance on either one side of the ledger or the other, but how it came about there is no telling.

The other 25 per cent of the managers who keep detailed information on this phase of operation are those producing the larger output.

Pond Sites

Most of the coal acreage of the western field lies inland between the Ohio and Green rivers, and because of the flat character of the surface, trouble is often experienced in locating reservoir sites of sufficient water shed. In such cases extended droughts necessitate either long pipe lines or the hauling of water in tank cars.

Competition

The conditions which tend to promote keen competition in this field deserve mention. Involuntary suspensions in other fields have, in times past, created a demand for western Kentucky coal in the large markets outside of its sales zone.
Limited capital has drawn conclusion that the lucrative mining occas means only the sinking of a shaft or the opening of a drift.

The comparative ease with such openings are made in this field; the cheapness of the coal "in place," together with short periods of epis-modic prosperity—have brought into being small operations which cannot be sustained by the normal demands of the present market.

I have purposely dismissed this subject with a short statement of the conditions, since the abundance of discussion relating to it precludes its treatment in so general a paper.

In conclusion, it has been the purpose to set forth as clearly as possible the various problems and difficulties which beset the coal mining men of western Kentucky.
Doubtless the time is coming, and it may not be far off, when the various physical problems will gain in merit as the operators who have to deal with them progress in the still more advanced proclivities of economic production.

TWELVE MINERS

Entombed in Alabama Shaft and All Are Believed to be Dead

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 10.— Twelve men, five whites and seven negroes, were killed in a local explosion at the Rock Castle mine of the Davis Creek Coal Company, thirty-five miles south of Birmingham in Tatesboroa county, this morning. More than 200 men were at work in the mine when the explosion occurred, but all except twelve got out before the after-damp affected any seriously. The dead:

Whites—W. W. Quarles, foreman; Frank Tillery, blast man; Joe Bosnick, Phil Malner and John Hoadley, Five negroes.

Mine Foreman Quarles had gone into the mines only five minutes before the explosion to set up some brattices. Rescue squads were rushed from Birmingham as soon as news of the explosion reached here, but there was little for them to do when they reached the mine.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure.

Title of Pope.

It is uncertain when the title pope was first used. The earliest instance we can cite, is that of Heraclius, Patriarch of Alexandria, in 223. It is still the ordinary title of parish priests in the eastern Greek church.
In the west, it continued for several centuries to be applied to bishops generally, but it was restricted to the Roman pontiff by Gregory VII. in a synod, held at Rome in 1073.

Weak Women!

Some women are weak because of ills that are common

In Girlhood—Womanhood and Motherhood

The prescription which Dr. R. V. Pierce uses most successfully—in diseases of women—which has stood the test of nearly half a century—is

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Take this in liquid or tablet form as a tonic and regulator!

Mrs. Kate D. Richardson, of Beasley, Essex Co., Va., says: "I esteem it a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness peculiar to my sex. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the good results of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it with the 'Pleasant Pellets,' I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate stomach, liver, bowels

The man who whispers down a well About the things he has to sell Will never reap a crop of dollars Like he who climbs a tree and "hollers."

MANY BOMBS HELD

IN SECRET ROOM

Kept by New York Police as Evidence Against Their Makers

New York, Jan. 10.—A wierd exhibit of death missiles is the 1913 crop of bombs stored by Gotham's inspectors of combustibles in a secret magazine maintained by the fire department on the upper East Side.

These bombs are carefully labeled and cataloged and are held for the time when the chain of evidence against certain black-mailers and other bands may have reached the point where the culprits should be confronted with the product of their handiwork.

In this unique collection are the keys to many of the bomb outrages of the past year, of which there were no less than 125—an increase of seventy-three over 1912. Most of them are cunningly contrived explosives which failed to explode through no fault of their makers but were discovered before the burning fuses reached the powerful charges. Were these bombs exploded simultaneously they would wipe a city block of buildings off the map.

IF MEALS HIT BACK AND STOMACH SOURS

"Pape's Diapepsin" Ends Indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in Five Minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gas, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

Missouri Attorney General Barred From

Railroad Suits After He Attacks

U. S. Judge

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 10.—Judge Smith McPherson in the Federal Court late today enjoined John T. Barker, Attorney General of Missouri, from proceeding in State Courts with suits for $24,000,000 overcharges against Missouri railroads, and took the Missouri railroad rate case under further advisement for three weeks.

The overcharges, the State contends were made during the life of the Federal Court injunctions preventing enforcement of the Missouri maximum freight and two cent passenger fare laws. The United States Supreme Court recently held the laws constitutional and ordered Judge McPherson to dissolve the injunctions preventing their enforcement.

Judge McPherson's action followed an exciting day in court during which Barker demanded that the Judge dismiss the injunction without further delay. Barker made a bitter attack on Judge McPherson shouting in the midst of it:

"You cannot continue to police this State for the railroads."

Judge McPherson listened to the attack in silence. At the end of it he said:

"In my thirteen and one-half years on the Federal bench, I have never been influenced by any one or any thing except my conscience. While I would like the good opinion of all men, I shall not be swerved from the dictates of my conscience by any bouquets or by any brickbats."

Attorney General Barker said after court he would return to Jefferson City and study the situation. He declared he did not know whether Judge McPherson's injunction was binding on him or not. He said he would announce his next move at Jefferson City, Monday.

MOTHER! THE CHILD IS COSTIVE, BILIOUS

Don't Hesitate! A Laxative is Necessary if Tongue is Coated, Breath Bad or Stomach Sour.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and if you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver, and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!
